VIII. The WHOLE WORKS of HENRY MACKENZIE, Esq. revised and corrected by the Author; with the addition of various Pieces never before published. Most beautifully printed in Eight Volumes, Post Octavo, with a Portrait of the Author, Price 3l. 3s. in boards.

* * * This edition, besides being published under the careful inspection and review of the Author, contains several hitherto unpublished works, particularly a Tragedy and a Comedy, in which it is believed the Public will be interested. Among the already published Pieces, is included a Pamphlet, published in the year 1790, the History of the Proceedings of the Parliament 1785; that Parliament in which Mr Pitt laid the foundation of all those measures to which the Country has imputed the power which Great Britain exercised under his auspices, of resisting the tyrannous encroachments of Bonaparte, so fatal to the rest of Europe. It adds a double interest to this Publication, when we are informed, in a Note, by the Author, that it was anxiously revised and corrected by the hands of Mr Pitt himself.

IX. A DISSERTATION on the NUMBERS of MANKIND, in Ancient and Modern times. By ROBERT WALLACE, D.D. late one of the Ministers of Edinburgh. Second Edition, revised and corrected by GEORGE WALLACE, Esq. Advocate. Octavo. Price 9s. boards.

* * * The first edition of the above work was published in the year 1753, and is often referred to by Mr Malthus.

Works Published by

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & CO. EDINBURGH,

AND

CONSTABLE, HUNTER, PARK, & HUNTER,

10, LUDGATE STREET, LONDON.

I. The EDINBURGH MEDICAL and SURGICAL JOURNAL, for 1803, 1806, 1807, 1808, 1809, exhibiting a concise view of the latest and most important discoveries in Medicine, Surgery, and Pharmacy, (published quarterly,) 20 Numbers, £3; or any single Number, price 3s. each, or the whole handsomely done up in 5 Volumes, boards, price 3l. 2s. 6d.

* * After the experience of five years, the Editors have the satisfaction of finding the patronage, with which they have been honoured, progressively increasing; the circulation of this Journal becoming more extensive, and their correspondents more numerous. It would occupy too much space to enumerate all the respectable Practitioners who have contributed to establish and support the reputation of the Journal. Let it be sufficient to mention, that in the last volume are contained communications from Drs Bateman, Bocker, Bostock, Beigg, Clarke, Hoack, Jones, Peery, Reeve, Rutter, Wilson, Wright, and Vialley; and from Messrs Aldin, Barlow, A. Burns, Carmichael, Cooper, Crowfoot, Currier, Goodlad, Granger, Higgin, Hill, Hooper, Jenkinson, Lawrence, Oldknow, Robertson, Simmons, Waddoep, Watt, and Woolham.

II. The FARMER'S MAGAZINE, a periodical work, published quarterly, exclusively devoted to Agriculture and Rural Affairs, for the Years 1800, 1801, 1802, 1803, 1804, 1805, 1806, 1807, 1808, 1809, 40 Numbers, (and Supplement to 1803,) price 4l. 13s.; or in ten Volumes in boards, price 4l. 18s.

* * The establishment of a Board for promoting Agriculture and internal improvement, brought husbandry into fashion, and directed public attention to an art which, before that period, had been undervalued and neglected. From this change of public sentiment, the Proprietors of the FARMER'S MAGAZINE were encouraged to bring forward a periodical work which both contained interesting discussions upon agricultural subjects, and furnished select and important information respecting the state of markets, produce of crops, rate of rents, and value of labour in almost every district of the island. The design, at least the latter part of it, was new, therefore was not carried into execution till the assistance of numerous respectable agriculturists, both in Scotland and in England, was sought for and obtained; and to the active and steady exertions of these friends, may be attributed the success and unprecedented success of the work since its commencement—a success far beyond that of any agricultural publication hitherto attempted in this or any other country.

In the volumes of the FARMER'S MAGAZINE, every published, may be found regular essays or dissertations upon every agricultural subject which can be mentioned, together with an immense number of local observations, all calculated for the improvement of agriculture, and the benefit of those connected with it. What is of great importance to husbandmen, information is given in a plain and practical manner, neither clouded by theory, nor enveloped in metaphysical terms. That eminent writer on husbandry, the Rev. Mr Harte, in his little treatise on Agriculture, &c. The plain practical author pays his little contingent to the Republic of Knowledge with a bit of unvarnished real bullion, while the vain pedant, who has his eye dazzled by a heap of glittering counters, which are only the eye, but lead to the confusion.
