

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

ARCHIBALD MACMECHAN.—Head of the Department of English, Dalhousie University. A frequent contributor to the discussion of the local history and antiquities of Nova Scotia.

JOSEPH H. PARK.—Associate Professor of History, New York University.

E. L. CHICANOT.—Of Montreal. Much interested in problems of immigration, and the author of numerous books and articles dealing with this subject.

J. W. FALCONER.—Professor of New Testament Exegesis, Pine Hill College, Halifax, N. S.

R. MACGREGOR DAWSON.—Professor of Political Science, Rutgers College, New Jersey. Dr. Dawson has contributed to the journals particularly on points of Canadian constitutional development.

EDWARD LEON HARVEY.—Professor of English and Modern History, University of New Brunswick.

KENNETH W. TAYLOR.—Lecturer in Political Economy and History, McMaster University.

H. S. PATTERSON.—A Nova Scotian, now settled in Calgary, Alberta, where he practises law.

GYRTH RUSSELL.—A Nova Scotian artist, son of the Hon. Benjamin Russell.

FRANCES BEATRICE TAYLOR.—Of London, Ontario. Author of many pieces of verse in American and Canadian literary magazines, also of a book of verse entitled White Winds of Dawn.