

Contributors

ARTICLES

W. A. C. H. DOBSON

Lecturer in Chinese at Oxford from 1948 to 1952. Professor of Chinese, University of Toronto, from 1952, and until recently Head of Department of East Asian Studies; now a Senior Fellow of Massey College. During the war, served as Lieutenant-Colonel with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, and as member of various diplomatic missions. Awarded the Order of the Cloud and Banner by the Chinese Government. Published works include The Civilisations of the Orient (Oxford, 1955); Early Archaic Chinese (Toronto, 1962); and frequent contributions to learned journals.

J. W. DALY

Assistant Professor of History at McMaster University; a student of politics and political theory.

MURRAY BAUMGARTEN

Formerly of the Department of English, Williams College, and one of the founding editors of the Berkshire Review. Transferring in September, 1966, to Adlai E. Stevenson College, University of California, Santa Cruz.

RICHARD M. BIRD

A graduate in Economics of Dalhousie (King's) and Columbia, now with the Harvard University Development Advisory Service in Bogotá, Columbia. Joint editor of Readings on Taxation in Developing Countries (Baltimore, 1964) and of articles on regional policies.

G. G. CAMPBELL

Principal of Sydney Academy, Sydney, Nova Scotia; author of The History of Nova Scotia (Toronto, 1948), and articles on education and Nova Scotia history.

FRED E. H. SCHROEDER

Department of English, University of Minnesota, Duluth.

HENRY WINTHROP

Professor and Chairman, Department of Interdisciplinary Social Sciences at the University of South Florida; contributor to Machines and the Man: A Source-book on Automation (New York, 1961); in preparation, Automation and Social Change and a book on behavioural and social science. Some Possible Social Benefits of Space Research, by Dr. Winthrop, was published in the Spring, 1966, issue of the Review.

VERSE

SARA VAN ALSTYNE ALLEN, of Jackson Heights, New York; FREDERICK CANDELARIA, of Burnaby, British Columbia; STANLEY MASON, of Zurich, Switzerland.

REVIEW ARTICLE

JOHN M. ROBSON, Professor of English, Victoria College, University of Toronto.