

CONTRIBUTORS

Chinua Achebe, the Nigerian novelist, is currently with the English Department at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

Kofi Awoonor, the Ghanaian poet and novelist, teaches African literature at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Nadine Gordimer, the South African novelist, lives and writes in Johannesburg.

Douglas Killam is Head of the English Department at Acadia University in Wolfville, N.S.

Daniel Kuene teaches in the Department of African Languages and Literature at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

Gerald Moore teaches in the School of African and Asian Studies at the University of Sussex in Brighton.

D. Ibe Nwoga teaches in the English Department at the University of Nigeria at Nsukka.

Rowland Smith teaches in the English Department at Dalhousie University in Halifax.

Emile Snyder teaches in the Department of French and Italian at the University of Indiana in Bloomington.

Claude Wauthier is Assistant Chief Editor of Agence France Presse in Paris.

Verse from Rae Crossman, Barrie, Ontario; Tony Curtis, Doncaster, England; John Ditsky, Windsor, Ontario; Rod Drown, Burnaby, B.C.; J.G. Featherstone, Halifax; D.A. Giffin, Halifax; Steven Kilby, Valois, Quebec; Cherra Ransom, Montreal; Sherry Rind, Bellevue, Washington; Ken Stange, North Bay, Ontario; Patrick White, Victoria, B.C.