

Rising and Falling Expectations

Carl Sandburg eternally dreams of waitresses
standing against the skyscraping outline
of the windy city

some of us dream
forever of things
less accessible and
experience little of the beauty of
a familiar body
breathing under
the winking lights
of a city anywhere

Heather Tisdale