

DARRELL EPP

Sweet Enough

alien abductions are on the rise, according to the new york times. what's more, ufo's change lanes without signalling. the earth has other problems, as well: tourists kidnapped in distant deserts, my broken shoelace. i stare at your highschool yearbook photo and wait for it to reveal its secrets. i'm thinking of a baby bird, thrashing its way out of the egg. morning will come, count on it. tomorrow's sun will astonish and change us like a raymond chandler simile, sweet enough to make the whole world cry.

