

CONTRIBUTORS

John Bligh teaches English at the University of Guelph.

Dennis R. Bormann teaches at University of Nebraska where he is Chairman of the Speech Communication Division.

John Ditsky is a poet and critic who teaches English at University of Windsor.

Geoffrey M. Harvey, who now teaches at Bulmershe College of Higher Education in England, taught English at Dalhousie for several years.

John Hollow is with the Department of English, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

Joseph G. Jabbra and Ronald G. Landes both teach Political Science at Saint Mary's University, Halifax.

G.D. Killam is Head of the Department of English and Dean of Arts at Acadia University.

Robert H. MacDonald teaches English at Carleton University.

S.V. Pradhan, who spent a year at Dalhousie as a Killam Post-doctoral Fellow, is now Reader at the Hyderabad Institute of English.

P.G. Skidmore is a professor of history at Brescia College, London, Ontario, where she teaches Canadian, American and European history.

John J. Teunissen is Head of the Department of English at the University of Manitoba.

Verse from:

Greg Belland, Halifax; Allan G. Brown, Kingston, Ontario; Kay Burkman, St. Catharines, Ontario; Leona Gom, Vancouver; Elizabeth Jones, Cambridge Station, N.S.; Andrea Moorhead, Schenectady, N.Y.; Eric Trethewey, New Orleans; Patrick White, Victoria, B.C.; Graeme Wilson, Hong Kong.