

S. Basdeo has been a visiting professor at Dalhousie and now teaches history at the University of the West Indies (St. Augustine, Trinidad).

Robert Beum has published poems and essays in The Dalhousie Review. He teaches English at The University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Northrup Frye has noted that his poems are "authentically Maritime, wherever they may have been written."

David Citino has published previously in The Dalhousie Review. He teaches at The Ohio State University (Marion), and The Ohio State University Press recently published his Last Rites and Other Poems.

Charles Edward Eaton has new poems coming out in The Southern Review, Bennington Review, Salmagundi, and The Massachusetts Review, and his eighth collection, In the Land of the Thing King, will be published in 1982. His poem, "Sentimental Education," won an award in the 1981 Arvon Foundation International Poetry Competition in London, and has since been published in The Kenyon Review.

Margaret Ann Fitzpatrick teaches English at Erindale College, University of Toronto, and is an editor of Descant.

Kathryn Hamer teaches French and Spanish literature at Mount Allison University and is Associate Director of Canadian Studies there.

J. J. Healey has written Literature and the Aborigine in Australia, 1770-1975. He teaches English and Canadian Studies at Carleton University and has taught at Monash University and The University of Texas at Austin.

A. F. Moritz has published poems recently in Queen's Quarterly, The Tamarack Review, Prairie Schooner, and The Denver Quarterly. He is the author of Black Orchid, a book of poems published this year.

Robert H. Keyserlingk teaches history at The University of Ottawa.

Camille La Bossière teaches literature at The University of Ottawa.

Robert H. MacDonald has published articles on myth, history, and literature in The Journal of the History of Ideas, Modern Language Review, Canadian Literature, and The Dalhousie Review. He teaches English at Carleton University.

S. V. Pradhan last appeared in The Dalhousie Review, vol. 60, no. 2.

H. Robertson received his Ph.D. in history at Dalhousie and now teaches history at the University of the West Indies (St. Augustine, Trinidad).

Constance Scheerer lives in Laurence, Kansas.

Janice Blue Zwarts' poems have appeared in The Fiddlehead, The Malahat Review, and other periodicals, and have been broadcast on CBC's "Anthology."