

Contributors

HELEN P. LIEBEL

Associate Professor of History, University of Alberta; author of Enlightened Bureaucracy versus Enlightened Despotism in Baden, 1750-1792 (Philadelphia, 1965), and of articles on history and historiography.

NATHAN COMFORT STARR

Professor Emeritus of English and Humanities, University of Florida; currently teaching at the New School for Social Research, New York City; author of The Dynamics of Literature (New York, 1945) and King Arthur Today (University of Florida, 1954); editor of The Pursuit of Learning (New York, 1956) and co-editor of The Humanistic Tradition (New York, 1964); contributor to learned and general periodicals.

JUDITH FINGARD

Of the Department of History, Dalhousie University, specializing in the social history, educational and religious, of the Atlantic Provinces.

GARY GEDDES

Lecturer in English at the Ryerson Institute, at York University, and at the University of Toronto, for which he is completing a doctoral dissertation on Conrad's later fiction; author of articles on Conrad and on Canadian literature.

SADHU SINGH DHAMI

A writer on social and political subjects, recently retired, after twenty-four years' service, from the International Labour Office, Geneva, where he had a special interest in the international relations of "developing" countries; a book, The Old World and the New, which will include reflections and essays on Canada and India, is in preparation.

W. L. WHITE

Head of the Department of Political Science, University of Windsor; formerly with the Treasury Board, Federal Government Department of Finance; author of articles on Finance and Political Science; visited Zambia in 1966 as personal adviser to the President in establishing an executive body to regulate expenditures.

JOHN LAUBER

Associate Professor of English, University of Alberta; author of Sir Walter Scott (New York, 1967) and of articles on Byron.

T. A. GOUDGE

Chairman, Department of Philosophy, University of Toronto; author of Bergson's Introduction to Metaphysics (New York, 1949, 2nd. ed. 1955), The Thought of C. S. Peirce (Toronto, 1950), The Ascent of Life, (London, 1961, 1967), and of numerous articles in philosophical journals, Encyclopedia of Philosophy (1967), etc.

Contributors (continued)

W. K. THOMAS

Professor of English, University of Waterloo; author of Form and Substance: A Guide to the Research Paper (Toronto, 1963), and of articles on literature and criticism. A verse paraphrase of Beowulf, applying principles discussed in his essay, was published in the Revue de l'Université d'Ottawa, XXXVII (1967), 231-268.

A. W. CURRIE

Professor of Commerce, University of Toronto; author of several books on Canadian Transportation and Economic History.

VERSE

DEIRDRE EARLE, of Pickering, Ontario; JOHN NEWLOVE, of Portuguese Cove, Nova Scotia; SALVATORE QUASIMODO, of Milan, Italy (translated by GIULIANO DEGO, of London, England).

REVIEW ARTICLE

KEITH HARRISON, Professor of English, York University.

Compliments of

Sea-Seald Division

National Sea Products
Limited

Halifax

Nova Scotia

best tea
you ever tasted...

MORSE'S

