

Contributors

ARTICLES

JOHN MISICK

A graduate in Arts of Dalhousie University; after twenty years in business, completed a graduate course in Business Administration at Columbia in 1968, and joined the Department of Commerce at Dalhousie as Assistant Professor.

HOWE MARTYN

Professor of International Business and Director, International Business Program, The American University, Washington, D. C.; originator of the International Business Research Laboratory; formerly editor of the Canadian Bookman, and an executive of various business organizations; author of International Business: Principles and Problems (1964), [translated into Dutch and Japanese]; New Directions in International Economic Policy (1966); Foreign Competition and Christian International Relations (1963); and numerous articles, chiefly on International Business and Economics, in various periodicals.

STANLEY S. ATHERTON

Of the Department of English, University of Saskatchewan; on leave in England in 1967-68 to complete a dissertation on the fiction of Alan Sillitoe.

TIMOTHY E. REID

Assistant Professor of Economics, York University [Toronto]; a Rhodes Scholar, and a graduate of Toronto, Yale, and Oxford.

PHYLLIS R. BLAKELEY

Assistant Provincial Archivist, Halifax, Nova Scotia; author of Nova Scotia: A Brief History (Toronto, 1955), Glimpses of Halifax, 1867-1900 (Halifax, 1949); and articles on the history of the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

ROBERT E. LOUGY

Assistant Professor of English, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa.; author of articles on Victorian Literature and preparing a book-length critical study of Swinburne's verse.

ROBERT ALDER McLEOD

Soldier, scholar, world traveller; see note on p. 366.

DIANE E. BESSAI

Assistant Professor of English, University of Alberta; a graduate of the University of London, for which she is completing her studies on the relation of Irish mythology to the Irish literary revival.

VENANT CAUCHY

Professor of Philosophy, Université de Montréal; one of the founding editors

remember when it didn't matter how you travelled?

But now it's important.

In the early days, any group insurance plan was better than none at all.

Nowadays employer-employee relations are so important that you should select your benefit plans carefully.

You're in the driver's seat when you choose a modern Canada Life plan.

Enjoy the good life in Canada with Canada Life

Contributors (continued)

of the Canadian Philosophical Reviews Dialogue; author of Désir naturel et béatitude chez saint Thomas Fides (Montreal, 1958) and of articles on Philosophy in various periodicals and encyclopaedias.

VERSE

MYRTLE REYNOLDS ADAMS, of London, Ontario; ROBERT BEUM, of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island; ELIZABETH BREWSTER, of Edmonton, Alberta; FREDERICK CANDELARIA, of North Vancouver, British Columbia; THEODORE HOLMES, of Falcarragh, Eire.

REVIEW ARTICLE

LILIANE WELCH, Assistant Professor of French, Mount Allison University.