

Someone Is Crying Today

Someone is crying today.

Their snow covers Toronto's skin
with a white blanket.

I am leaving
during the longest night.

Have you been down
to the marshalling yard
writing messages
on the rail cars?

Through the falling snow
that warms my heart
I read, "HI JOE",
on cars
in unknown towns
and smile.

— Joe Blades