

TOM CHANDLER

THE ANIMAL WHO NAMED EVERYTHING

Eventually the animal who named everything finished the job: maps showed rivers plastered over with their names, skyscrapery cities completely buried under the boldface letters of their nations so that if it was time for the world to be over everyone would at least know what everything was called.